Term Paper and Presentation Requirements

Prof. C.-M. Kuan

Spring 2011

Students enrolled in this course are required to turn in a term paper on some econometric topics and present it in the class at the end of this semester. The term paper may be coauthored by (no more than) 2 students.

Paper Requirements

1. Content: The term paper may be your current research work or a review of some papers from the reading list. You may also discuss empirical applications of the method(s) introduced in this course. Please consult me if you are not sure what to do.
2. Style: The paper should be written in the format of a regular paper, including a title page with keywords, abstract, introduction, some sections for the main text, conclusion, and references. It should be no less than 8 pages if written in L^AT_EX (or 20 pages if using Microsoft Word).
3. The paper should be self-contained. You need to provide some details to support your arguments; do not just refer to references for details.

Presentation Requirements

1. Please prepare your electronic file (in pdf or ppt) for presentation.
2. Each presentation will last no more than 30 minutes. If there are 2 co-authors, the paper should be presented jointly.

Due Dates

1. Term paper: June 13, 2010; NO late paper will be accepted.
2. Presentation dates: To be determined.
