

Financial Aid for Students in Need (Endowment)

National
Taiwan
University

In 2013, the endowment Financial Aid for Students in Need was created by donations collected from numerous alumni and others from all walks of life. By the end of October this year, the amount raised has exceeded NT$150 million, and the money derived from interest will be used to provide monthly NT$4,000 stipends to low-income and culturally disadvantaged students for living and food expenses. In 2019 and 2020, these amounted to NT$4 million and NT$5 million, respectively, and after adding subsidies from the Ministry of Education's Higher Education Sprout Project, over 300 students are granted the stipends every year. This way, they can put their heart entirely into studying.
